

Moritz Poehl

Everside Capital Partners

Moritz is a founder and Managing Partner of Everside Capital Partners (“Everside”). Prior to Everside, Moritz worked at Barclays Capital in its leveraged finance group managing natural resource, infrastructure, renewable energy and power transactions. Moritz was actively involved in the financing of LBO’s, dividend recapitalizations, debut high yield and corporate loan issuances, in addition to several re-financings and corporate restructurings.

Previously, Moritz was a junior Portfolio Manager at Gabelli Asset Management, a $50 billion publicly listed asset management company based in New York, focusing on merger arbitrage, special situations, workouts and energy companies in the US and Europe. Before Gabelli, Moritz worked at Lehman Brothers in Lehman’s Technology, Media & Telecom Investment Banking group.

Moritz grew up in Germany and the UK and served in the German Army’s Mountaineers. He holds a B.A. from the European Business School in London and an M.B.A. from Columbia Business School in New York. He lives in New York City with his wife and daughter.